All PhD programs offer unique conditions for scientific growth. Students admitted receive full financial support.

This includes tuition, fees, and a cost-of-living stipend (14,084 euro per year, plus free meals).

All students will be assigned further funding for their research activity and travel. Each PhD course offers scholarships reserved to students that graduated outside of Italy.

Applications are invited from candidates:

- will have completed an Italian laurea magistrale or equivalent degree from outside Italy within 31 October 2014
- were born after 31 October 1984

Admissions are based on student 4s' academic work and interviews.

All PhD courses will start from November 1st, 2014. Interviews will be held in July and October.

Deadline:

Monday, 30 June 2014 - for the July session

Monday, 15 September 2014 - for the October session
by midnight (CET)
